Burning Soul Press Announces Launch of New White-Label Agency: The Ember Project

Book publishing company launches agency that enables companies to build and operate their own branded imprint for published books and works.

September 16, 2021 - Burning Soul Press is proud to announce the launch of The Ember Project, a white-label agency for published works. Designed for businesses wanting to make an impact through thought leadership and storytelling, The Ember Project will help companies:

- Elevate their brand
- Magnify their content
- Build an internal publishing team
- Empower their clients and team
- Reach their audience in new ways

The Ember Project offers services to help develop, design, and publish books and other works while building a branded publishing imprint. For companies in partnership, the Burning Soul Press agency will establish and set up their imprint and provide publishing services and support. Burning Soul Press will also develop and train the clients' internal team in publishing, marketing and public relations so the imprint can operate independently. Further, companies working with The Ember Project will provide 100 ISBNs under their new imprint and 10 published books, guaranteed.

Burning Soul Press is now accepting partners and clients of The Ember Project - perfect for any organization seeking to publish books under their own brand in-house, with no middle-man. The Ember Project lends itself well to companies invested in thought leadership, making an impact, and leaving a lasting positive effect.
